

The 15-Minute Software Subscription Audit

Find the subscriptions you forgot about, the tools that do the same job, and the renewals coming up next. Use this page with the Subscription Audit spreadsheet in your kit.

Five steps

- 1 Pull your statements
 Open the last 2–3 months of card, bank, and PayPal statements, plus the subscription pages in the Apple and Google app stores.
- 2 List every recurring charge
 One row per tool on the Inventory tab. Enter the price, billing cycle, and next renewal date. Monthly and annual costs fill in for you.
- 3 Add "last used" and seats
 Check each tool's login or activity page. The sheet flags anything idle for 14+ days and seats you pay for but nobody uses.
- 4 Look for overlap
 Two tools in the same category usually means one can go. The Category Overlap tab shows where you're paying twice.
- 5 Decide, then act before renewal
 Mark each tool Keep, Downgrade, or Cancel. The Summary tab totals your savings and lists what renews in the next 30 days.

Where subscriptions hide

- Annual plans that renewed last year and haven't billed since
- Free trials that quietly became paid
- Seats left over from past clients or contractors
- Add-ons billed separately from the main tool
- Charges on a second card or a PayPal account
- Tools billed through app stores

The keep-or-cut test

1. Did I use it in the last 14 days?
 2. Does another tool I pay for already do this?
 3. Would I buy it again today at this price?
- Two "no" answers? Downgrade or cancel it.

Set renewal reminders

For anything you keep, put reminders on your calendar before it renews:
